

Bullseye Barrister

Shawn Libman
Bowman & Brooke
Miami, FL

Shawn has been selected as our Q3 2022 Bullseye Barrister in recognition of outstanding performance on a consistent basis. Shawn is a Partner at Bowman and Brooke and focuses her practice in the areas of premises liability, commercial litigation and general liability defense.

Shawn's history with Target started 15 years ago. She was just a few years out of law school when she had the good fortune to be hired by former lead counsel Charlie Flick to work with him on Target cases. When Charlie retired in 2021, Shawn stepped into the role of lead counsel – a goal which she had worked towards since the day she first began her journey with Target.

Over the course of her career with Target, Shawn has worked on close to 400 cases in South Florida, handling every type of incident imaginable. Some of her most memorable Target trials include an opposing party who broke into Greek dancing in front of the Jury and another where a new eyewitness for the Plaintiff appeared on the eve of Trial but couldn't explain why he was invisible on the video. Some of her more unique cases involved clothes hoarding, a guest claiming he was injured while stealing merchandise, various shopping cart hijinks, a fake bomb-scare on Christmas Eve, and a Plaintiff who was "allegedly" pulled over by the police while on our Zoom deposition. Shawn has successfully pursued tenders against a wide variety of vendors and has also defended Target in several Class Actions.

Shawn loves getting out to the store to investigate incidents and getting to know the team members of all different ages and backgrounds. Even Shawn's 7-year-old daughter has caught the Target bug, proudly telling everyone that Target is her favorite store and that her mom gets to work with Target! Shawn also doesn't mind her daughter's weekly requests to take her to Target because, after all, who doesn't love shopping at Target?!

This is Shawn's first award in recognition of outstanding results.
